Call for Papers

The Asia-Pacific Risk and Insurance Association is pleased to announce its new relationship with Berkeley Electronic Press (bepress). Beginning with volume year 2010, the Association's official journal – the Asia-Pacific Journal of Risk and Insurance (APJRI) – will be published by bepress.

The APJRI welcomes high-quality submissions by academic and industry researchers, corporate executives, and government officials. Papers may address theoretical or applied problems in a variety of areas, including (but not limited to): actuarial pricing and reserving; insurance operations, economics, and regulation; corporate/enterprise risk management and finance; catastrophe risk; social insurance and employee benefits; local/regional/international insurance markets; and risk and insurance education.

Paper Submissions. Manuscripts should be submitted in MS Word, and must contain both an abstract and complete author information (including name, title, affiliation, and postal and e-mail addresses). All submissions should be sent to:

Michael R. Powers, Editor
Professor, Temple University (US) and Tsinghua University (China)
APJRI@apria.org

The Review Process. Manuscripts are subject to double-blind peer review at the discretion of the Editor, and must not have been published in – or submitted for concurrent review with – another journal. Successful authors will be required to submit the final versions of their papers in MS Word, and to assign copyright to the journal's publisher.

Volunteer Reviewers. Researchers are welcome to join the APJRI's pool of reviewers by sending the Editor a short biographical sketch and indication of relevant areas of expertise.

Book Reviews. The APJRI publishes reviews of books likely to be of interest to the journal's readers. A list of books available for review can be found at www.apria.org/APJRI.htm. Andreas Richter serves as Book Review Editor.
